Adam MacDonald is a Practice Manager in the Business Department at Outer Temple Chambers.

Adam joined Outer Temple Chambers in January 2013 following the completion of his law degree and has been a Practice Manager since 2019.

He assists Practice Director, Nick Levett, in the management of members working in the fields of Employment & Discrimination, Health and Safety & Environment. Day-to-day responsibilities include liaising with clients and courts, agreeing fees, general diary management and promoting the practice groups and its members.

Having worked at chambers for a number of years, Adam has a solid understanding of the practices of all the members in his team and is happy to discuss enquiries with clients in order to find the best option for them.

Away from work, Adam continues to proudly suffer as a season ticket holder at Queens Park Rangers Football Club. He is also a member of the Institute of Barristers' Clerks.
